Reports and Publications

Fact Sheet: Required Legal Findings and Standards of Proof (Children's Law Center, September 2017)

"Attorneys in DC child welfare proceedings may litigate a variety of issues throughout their practice. This fact sheet summarizes the key legal findings and standards of proof that must be met at each stage of a case."

Practice Kit 4: CFSA Policies and LaShawn A. (Children's Law Center, Revised August 2017)

"This practice kit provides a summary of the LaShawn A. federal class action lawsuit filed in 1989 on behalf of maltreated children in the District's child welfare system. The kit includes court orders and plans for the last several years of the suit, as well as selected court monitor's reports and court decisions. CFSA information and additional resources are also part of the guide." Publication

Practice Kit 6: Education Toolkit (Children's Law Center, Revised September 2017)

"This practice kit contains school contact information, calendars, enrollment and stability information for DC and Prince George's County schools. There are also chapters on regulations and policies regarding school discipline, attendance and truancy, and special education provisions. There is also an overview of early intervention and preschool programs." Publication

Practice Kit 12: DC Court of Appeals Case Law Index (Children's Law Center, Revised September 2017)

"The purpose of this practice kit is to equip attorneys with a basic foundation of case law regarding several regularly recurring legal issues and doctrines at the appellate level in abuse and neglect, guardianship, custody, and adoption matters. Opinions from the D.C. Court of Appeals are organized by specific topic, and within each subject area, opinions are listed chronologically." Publication

Pathways after High School: Evaluation of the Urban Alliance High School Internship Program (Urban Institute, August 2017)

“Urban Alliance, headquartered in Washington, DC, helps students at risk of becoming disconnected from work or school transition to higher education or employment after high school. Through its High School Internship Program, it offers participating high school seniors training, an internship, and mentoring to help them succeed. The Urban Institute recently completed an evaluation of the program in Washington, DC, and Baltimore. Using an experimental design, the study revealed several key findings approximately two years after high school.”

Transition-Age Youth in Foster Care Facts in District of Columbia (Child Trends, August 2017)

“This document presents facts about transition-age youth in foster care in FFY 2015. It is part of an array of child welfare factsheets, available on the Child Trends website, including adoption, child maltreatment, foster care, and kinship caregiving.” Publication

Triple Whammy: A Sales Tax for Metro, Like Fare Increases and Service Cuts, Would Fall Hardest on Struggling Families (DC Fiscal Policy Institute, August 2017)

“A strong Metro system is important to all of us in the Washington region, and there is wide agreement that Metro needs additional resources to rebuild its health. But a regional sales tax—a widely discussed option—would be an unfair way to pay for it. A sales tax would ask struggling families in the Washington region to bear the largest responsibility for improving our transportation system, while leaving businesses and high-income households largely off the hook. It should be rejected as a Metro funding option.” Publication

Analysis of Data on Youth with Child Welfare Involvement at Risk of Homelessness (Mathematica Policy Research, August 2017)

“This brief discusses the data strategy associated with the ‘The Framework to End Youth Homelessness: A Resource Text for Dialogue and Action,’ (USICH, 2013) and how the strategy was implemented by YARH Phase I grantees. The information in this brief comes from grantee applications for both Phase I and Phase II and papers and presentations by grantees.” Publication
